"Knowledge is power." There is one kind of knowledge that is power and prestige in the hands of a woman. It is the knowledge of her own nature, her own physical make-up and the home-treatment of diseases peculiar to her sex. There is a great book that teaches all this. It is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. Over 1,200,000 American homes contain copies of this work. It used to cost $1.50; now it is free. For a paper covered copy send 21 one-cent stamps, to cover mailing only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.; French cloth binding, 3 stamps.

This great book tells all about a medicine that is an unfailing cure for all weakness and disease of the delicate organs distinctly feminine. That medicine is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. During the past thirty years many thousands of women have used it with marvelous results. It imparts health, vigor, virility, strength and elasticity to the organs that bear the burdens of maternity. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. Taken during the period of gestation, it makes the coming of baby easy and almost painless. It completely banishes the pain and misery that are the result of a woman's neglecting her womanly health. An honest medicine dealer will give you what you ask for, and not try to persuade you to take some inferior substitute for the little added profit he may make thereon.

Mrs. Jas. Schaffner, of Freemansburg, Northampton Co., Pa., writes: "It is with pleasure that I write to let you know the great good I have received from your medicines and the local self-treatment at home. I was troubled with female weakness, had pains in my back all the time, sometimes so severe that I could not lie in bed at night. I tried different doctors but they could not help me. Then my husband got Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, and induced me to try Dr. Pierce's medicines. After taking six bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' I feel like a new woman."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "P. P." is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them and nothing is "just as good."

Born Equal, but Not Free.

"Here is a curious error," said the schoolboy as he laid down his "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and turned to the encyclopedia. The author uses the expression, "All men are born free and equal."

"Well, what is the matter with that?" inquired the schoolboy's uncle. "Why, the quotation should be, 'All men are born equal.' There is no 'free' in it."

"Do you mean to tell me that Jefferson did not write 'free and equal' in the Declaration?"

"That's what he didn't."

"I'll bet you!"

"Don't do it, uncle. Remember, you have a family to support, and they will need all your money. The word 'free' does not occur there. See?" And he placed the big book before his misguided relative.

"Oh, I know better! I will get a copy of the constitution in one of my old books. I have heard that quoted so often I know what I am talking about."

"You have heard it quoted wrong every time you heard the 'free' in it."

After they had found the good and reliable old book and all the rest of the authorities the uncle ungraciously gave up. But he hated to do so. It seems impossible to correct that wrong impression. The boy was right. Yet people will go on indefinitely making a "free" and inaccurate quotation.—Chicago Post.

Outwitted by His Coachman.

The carriage horses of Chief Justice Marshall were exceedingly thin, and his family told him that it was currently hinted that Jerry, the colored coachman, exchanged too great a proportion of the horse feed for whisky for personal use to allow the horses food enough to keep them in a good and creditable condition. The judge went to the stable and directed Jerry's attention to the poor appearance of the horses, told him of the rumor about his exchanging oats and hay for whisky and thereby depriving the horses of their necessary supply of food and spoke of the sleek, fat team driven by his neighbor Brewer.

"Laws, Massa John," said Jerry, "it's the natur' of the animals! Look at Mr. Brewer himself, sah, a short, fat, greasy gentleman, that ain't seed his boots after his feet was in 'em for years, while you, sah, is tall and round shouldered an sees your feet all de time youse walkin, an look at de coachman, thicker through than he is long, while I see only skin an bones! Of course his critters is fat, while yours is thin. It's their natur', Massa John; it's their natur'." They belongs to the fat kin, and we all belongs to de lean kin. It's natur'!"

"Perhaps that is so," said the judge reflectively and walked away as if well satisfied with the explanation.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Largest Emerald in the World.

A vase cut from a single emerald has been preserved in a cathedral in Genoa, Italy, 600 years. Its dimensions are: Diameter, 12 1/2 inches; height, 3 1/2 inches. Every precaution is used to insure safekeeping. Several locks must be opened to reach it, and the key of each lock is in the possession of a different man. It is publicly exhibited very rarely, and then only by order of the senate. A precautionary decree was passed in 1476 forbidding all persons to approach the priceless treasure too closely. An antiquarian advances the theory that it was one of the gifts made Solomon by the Queen of Sheba, and has written a book to prove his assumption. It is difficult in these matters of fact days to believe so large an emerald had ever been found, and it would be interesting to hear the verdict of a gem expert after he had carefully examined the vase.—Manufacturing Jeweler.

An amateur editor has made a fortune by his pen. His father died of grief on reading one of his editorials and left him $50,000.—Nauvoo Independent.

THE BALD EAGLE AT HOME.

He Chooses a High Tree For His Offensive Nest.

An old friend met us. He first showed as a black spot far up on the shore, then drifted grandly down upon set plinths, tacking in and out like a yacht working to windward. It happened he was slanting shoreward when he passed, and at 40 yards his snowy head and tall, broad, brown fans showed to fine advantage. We could see the polished yellow of his hooked bill and the fierce flash of his marvelous golden telescopic eye as he turned it upon us and then back to his tireless searching of the water and the wave line along shore.

For years this eagle, hoary old beach comber as he is, has patrolled the shore daily for miles, seeking what the waters have cast up, for he it known he is not above accepting even carrion. Many a dead fish and lost bird he gets for the trouble of picking them up, but he can hunt, too, when he feels so disposed. Season after season he and his mate have patched the old nest and reared their eagles in peace.

No one can climb the tree, and no decent man would shoot at the birds. Should you visit the foot of the tree your nose will be assailed by a most objectionable odor, and your naturally brief inspection will convince you that the eagles do hunt more than they are given credit for. Everywhere are fragments of fish, while among them are wings and tails which must have belonged to grouse, portions of hares and other fragments suspiciously like certain parts of lambs, sucking pigs and domestic fowls. But they were not our lambs, pigs or fowls, and so no shot whistles after the old pirate, who seems to understand that he is free to buccanier to his heart's content.—Ed W. Sandys in Outing.

GESTICULATING TALKERS.

Italians Wave Arms Wildly When Conversing With One Another.

The farther south one goes in Europe the more do the people gesticulate in conversation, asserts a traveler who is at present "doing" Italy.

A Neapolitan, he says, goes through an entire course of calisthenics before he has talked five minutes. Give a Neapolitan a pair of dumb bells and ask him what he thinks of the weather and before he finishes his answer he will have taken enough headful exercise to last him all day.

This traveler spent many an interesting hour in watching the Neapolitan talk. One day in a cafe he sat next to a couple of Italians, who were engaged in a most spirited conversation. The younger of the two men grew very excited. With his hands he made reaching and clinging motions, as if climbing. Then he reached right and left above his head, as one would do in picking cherries. Then, without slackening his remarkable flow of conversation, he put the thumb and first finger of his left hand together and held them a few inches before his eyes and went through the careful movements of one threading a small needle. And all the time he talked. Next he made overhand motions as of throwing. Then he gave an imitation of some one swimming. After that he described several rapid circles with his left hand, which gave the impression of a revolving wheel. Then he leaned forward and, with his right hand lifted, acted as a person would act in trying to put a key into a keyhole. The writer asked his friend, who understood Italian, what all the fuss was about.

"They're talking chiefly about the weather," was the reply.—London Mail.

His Brogue Saved Him.

The thickness of his brogue secured for a recent arrival from the Emerald Isle a ride of several hundred miles at the expense of the Pennsylvania railroad. His destination was Boston, and at the Broad street station he asked for a ticket to the Hub. The ticket seller was unable to determine whether it was Boston or Washington the man wanted to reach, but finally sold him a ticket for the latter city, and a few hours later he found himself in the national capital. As he was unable to read, the mistake was not discovered until he reached Washington, and to complicate matters he had not sufficient funds to purchase a ticket to Boston.

He presented his case to the railroad officials at Washington, and they, putting him to a test, were unable to distinguish from his pronunciation of Washington and Boston any material difference, thus exonerating the clerk at the Broad street station. In this city, for his error. The facts of the case being laid before the general passenger department, the man with the brogue was forwarded to his proper destination.—Philadelphia Record.

Fruit Versus Alcohol.

Fruit will destroy the desire for alcoholic drinks. Oranges and apples have been found to be the most effective cure for inebriates. And the more they eat of these luscious fruits the more the desire for drink will diminish, until at last it is completely crucified and, so far as the individual is concerned, is gone forever.

The Bluff Called.

Father (from head of stairs)—Bessie, if that young man doesn't go pretty soon he will miss the last car. Bessie (in parlor)—That's all right, papa. He likes to walk.—New York Journal.

When a married woman talks of her girlhood days she reminds us of the amateur fisherman. The best catches always got away from her.—Denver Post.

The highest inhabited place in the world is the customs house of Ancon, in Peru, it being 10,000 feet above the sea.

Hopeless Credulity.

"The gross superstition one occasionally encounters among fairly intelligent people is very disheartening," lamented a physician. "Some time ago I was called in by an upper class mechanic, a man who earns $6 a day. I found him in a state of alarming nervous depression, and he complained of agonizing neuralgia in the head. I questioned him sharply, and he finally informed me that he had been 'conjured' by an old negro servant whom he had discharged. It seems he had found a small red bannet bag full of dough hidden under his mattress, recognized it as a voodoo 'charm' and had never been well since. He told me this in an awestruck whisper, and I made no effort to conceal my disgust. I told him he ought to be ashamed of himself for allowing an ignorant dork to play on his imagination, but I could see plainly that he was unconvinced. Finally I gave him some simple treatment, and in a few days he was all right. But what sickened me was the dense, hopeless credulity of—"

"By the way, doctor," interrupted a listener, "what was it that you gave the man yourself?"

"Oh, merely some bread pills," replied the physician. "There was no use taking such a case seriously. What are you laughing at, anyhow?"

"Nothing," said the other demurely. —New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Lovely Little Pug Noses.

They are distributing an advertisement in Germany that runs thus:

"A studio for improving the human face."

"This studio is highly recommended to ladies and gentlemen who wish to possess faces in the present fashion."

"This is the best house in the world for improving and changing the color of the eyes, which can be rendered flashing and bright, deep as the sea or full of laughter."

"This house must not be thought to have anything to do with any other establishment. It possesses vast laboratories, and over 1,200 apparatuses are in use to change and improve the features."

"A great specialty is made of dimples and of producing lovely little turned up noses."

"Terms are moderate, and the strictest discretion and secrecy are observed."

People in Paris are talking a great deal of this advertisement, writes a correspondent of madame, but, except that the establishment is in Vienna, I have not been able to discover the address of this most wonderful house for manufacturing eyes and noses.

Quickwads Hidden Under Clay.

Curious but dangerous freaks of nature frequently found in the deserts of Arizona are called sumideros by the Mexicans and Indians. They are masked pitfalls of quicksand that occur in the dry plains and are covered with a treacherous crust of clay that has been spread over them in fine particles by the wind and baked dry by the sun.

The peculiar properties of the soil retain all the moisture drained into them after the infrequent rains and allow it to be filtered to unknown depths, so that a man or a horse or a cow or a sheep that once steps upon that deceptive crust instantly sinks out of sight beyond hope of rescue. The sumideros are on a level with the surface of the desert. There is no danger signal to mark them, and their surface cannot be distinguished by the ordinary eye from the hard clay that surrounds them. They occur most frequently in the alkali covered flats and are often 15 or 20 feet in diameter. Sometimes they are only little pockets or wells that a man can leap across, but the longest pole has never found their bottom. A stone thrown through the crust sinks to unknown depths, and no man who ever fell into one of them was rescued. They account for the mysterious disappearance of many men and cattle.—Chicago Record.

Four Courtship Sundays.

The four Sundays of November are observed as fete days in Holland. They are known by the curious names Review, Decision, Purchase and Possession and all refer to matrimonial affairs, November in Holland being the month par excellence devoted to courtship and marriage, probably because the agricultural occupations of the year are over and possibly because the lords of creation from quite remote antiquity have recognized the pleasantness of having wives to cook and cater for them during the long winter.

On Review Sunday everybody goes to church, and after service there is a church parade in every village, when the youths and maidens gaze upon each other, but forbear to speak.

On Decision Sunday each bachelor who is seeking a wife approaches the maiden of his choice with a ceremonious bow and from her manner of responding judges whether his advances are acceptable. Purchase Sunday the consent of the parents is sought if the suit has prospered during the week. Not until Possession Sunday, however, do the twain appear before the world as actual or prospective brides and grooms.—Denver News.

Britain and Boer

A state of war exists in the Transvaal if accounts given are true, and there is no reason to believe they do not present things as they are in that unfortunate land.

The Boers have given Britain to understand that they mean to defend the land they live in till death comes to relieve them from a duty that nature and nature's God has made incumbent upon them.

They may be conquered, but in the conquest the world will learn another lesson in this devotion of civilized man to liberty and country.

The Boer may not be advanced in higher culture and his education may be limited in the fine arts, while the abstract sciences may be practically unknown to him, but he has learned the value of liberty while roaming over the veldts of the Transvaal and freedom has become a priceless treasure, more precious to him than life.

May God defend the right and aid the weak!

Not the Whole Truth

"Reno has fourteen saloons and six gambling houses."
—Exchanges galore

It is true we have the above numbered wet goods emporiums and lairs where the festive tiger hides away, but that is only a beginning. The block south of Commercial row and east of Virginia street contains that number alone.

The migrating line quoted above had its conception in an item recently published in the JOURNAL to the effect that licenses collected from fourteen saloons and six gaming houses had on the previous day been turned into the county treasury.

We don't say it in the spirit of boastfulness but with an honest desire to let the truth be known, that Reno is one of the dampest and sportiest villages between the high divides.

If all property in Nevada were assessed at its full valuation the county tax rates would be within the dollar limit. This would treble the accounted worth of the realty in the state and draw investment of outside capital

WESTERN Nevada will experience a good old fashioned mining boom next spring.

Many people here will remember Mrs. Muzzy and grieve to learn of her death.
"Brown's in Town."
The fun in the latest farce offering, "Brown's in Town," which comes to the McKessick Opera House, October 18th, is of a unique order. The situations in "Brown" are said to be grotesquely funny, the pace bright and witty, and the music and songcatchers. The story that furnishes the groundwork for the play is simple and original, yet despite its simplicity there is not a dull moment in it from the opening scene to the final fall of the curtain. The action of the farce is rapid and is said to keep the audience guessing.

I consider it not only a pleasure but a duty I owe to my neighbors to tell about the wonderful cure effected in my case by the timely use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I was taken very badly with flux and procured a bottle of this remedy. A few doses of it effected a permanent cure. I take pleasure in recommending it to others suffering from dreadful diseases.—J. W. LYNN, Dorr, W. Va. This remedy sold by W. Pinniger.

The ancients believed that rheumatism was the work of a demon within man. Any one who has had an attack of sciatic or inflammatory rheumatism will agree that the indication is demoniac enough to warrant the belief. It has never been claimed that Chamberlain's Pain Balm would cast out demons, but it will cure rheumatism and hundreds bear testimony to the truth of this statement. One application relieves the pain, and this quick relief which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by W. Pinniger.

SUIT FOR POSSESSION OF MINING INTERESTS

The Dodge Versus Williams Case Is Now Before the Judge and Jury.

The case of Dodge vs. Williams for possession of a half interest in the Gold Ledge and Cabin mining claims in Olinghouse Canyon was begun trial yesterday afternoon.

A jury was secured by 3 o'clock after six challenges were made, two of which were by the plaintiff.

W. H. A. Pike was the first witness. He remained on the stand until the evening session when the contract between Pike, Williams and Dodge was offered in evidence.

The defendant made objection to the introduction of the document and one hour was consumed in argument. The points debated were: That it was not such a contract as could be enforced by the court in this proceeding; that the instrument was abrogated by changes made by the parties.

The court dismissed the jury till 9:30 today, after which the argument was continued a short time upon the contract, when the court ruled to admit it and adjourned.

Home Again.

Corporal Parker of the First troop of Nevada cavalry surprised his friends by alighting from the east bound train yesterday morning.

Mr. Parker is the first of our boys to arrive from the seat of the war. His health was such that he feared the exposure to the chill fogs of the Pacific while waiting to be mustered out at the Presidio that he applied for and received his discharge at Manila. He reached San Francisco on the transport Newport Tuesday and lost little time in getting home.

The climate of the Philippines has had a debilitating effect upon the boys and many of them are either half sick or entirely so. The days seem long to them as they look forward to the time when they will be home again.

No Right to Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good looking, charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents at S. J. Hodgkinson's drug store.

A Prosperous Season.

Notwithstanding the backward spring and low water, Washoe county farmers are not complaining. They have money in bank.

Stockmen are unusually well to do. The prices have been the best and sales the easiest. With the prosperity of the rancher and stockman, people in all other lines of business feel the good times.

An official of one of the local banks said yesterday: "We have an exceptionally large amount of deposit money on hand. Money is very plentiful."

For the Celebration.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lill, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with Typhoid Fever, that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvelous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Throat and Lung Trouble. An Epidemic of Whooping Cough.

Last winter during an epidemic of whooping cough my children contracted the disease, having severe coughing spells.
